A. Evaluation context

Overall

The International Organization for Migration established its operations in Libya in 2006 and is active and present in the east, west and south of the country. IOM's Displacement Tracking Matrix monitors displacement and migration trends, which data and analysis aim to provide an evidence base to facilitate targeted humanitarian interventions. Through its guidance, IOM is able to tailor a comprehensive response to the humanitarian needs of migrants, internally displaced, returnee populations and host communities. Libya has traditionally been an origin, transit and destination country for migrants seeking better economic opportunities, escaping oppressive conditions in their home countries, or hoping to use the territory as a launch pad to Europe. Libya has been marked by a history of continued conflict and unrest in this North African country, which worsened between 2014 to 2020. The country has been further compounded by socio-economic impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic which developed from March 2019.

Migrant dynamics in Libya remain complex and dynamic, with many migrants across the country confronting significant challenges and protection concerns, linked to their status in the country and the vulnerable situations in which many find themselves. IOM Displacement Tracking Matrix (DTM) Libya identified a total of 635,051 migrants from over 44 nationalities in the 100 Libyan municipalities during Round 40 of data collection (December 2021 – January 2022)¹. Migrants in Libya are predominantly irregular, which eradicates nearly all their rights and access to public services in the country. In addition, there are 168,011 Internally Displaced Persons (IDPs) in Libya, primarily displaced due to the deterioration of the security situation².

Migrants, especially those originating or traveling from sub-Saharan Africa³, typically travel along traditional migration routes across Libya's open and porous southern border. Once inside Libya, migrants face a series of challenges caused by the harsh desert climate, lack of access to water and hence the constant threat of dehydration. The lack of government control throughout the southern region makes the area a prime location for criminal networks to exploit vulnerable migrants on the move. In addition, human smugglers frequently prey upon these migrants, offering promises of safe passage through inhospitable desert towards their intended destination for an exorbitant fee.

During their movement, migrants stop along the way to find work to fund their onward journey. The ongoing volatile security situation, and especially the armed conflict that erupted in Tripoli in the beginning of April 2019, has left migrants in the country vulnerable and stranded, often facing arbitrary arrest and detention, torture and sexual violence and increasingly in need of humanitarian assistance, including humanitarian evacuation. ³ Most migrants originate from Niger, Egypt, Chad, Sudan, Nigeria, and Mali, while refugees originate from Eritrea, Ethiopia, Iraq, Palestine, Sudan and Syria.

opportunities for migrants has been further affected with the development of the COVID-19 pandemic in Libya, which has adversely impacted general population mobility and business.

The Libyan health system was not structured in a sustainable manner under Qaddafi's leadership, being heavily reliant on foreign medical personnel. As such, Libya's health system suffers from severe shortages of staff, a poorly functioning medical supply chain and very weak disease surveillance and health information systems. With the beginning of the conflict, the following years of instability and with a lack of qualified medical professionals, the health system has nearly collapsed. Many public health care facilities are closed and those that are open lack medicines, supplies and equipment. Others have been directly and deliberately attacked or damaged due to fighting and those that remain functional are overburdened or unable to be maintained. There are acute shortages of medical specialists, midwives and nurses and huge gaps in coverage due to the uneven distribution of general internists, most of whom are working in urban areas. In many remote and hard-to-reach locations, poor and vulnerable communities have extremely limited access to health care.

Project

With this Action, IOM seeks to ensure a cohesive and integrated approach to protection and sustainable assistance to vulnerable and stranded migrants with a multifaceted approach. IOM aims to protect, assist and support vulnerable migrants, including enhancing social cohesion between migrants and host communities while also promoting a more effective and organized labour migration to promote longer term development in Libya. The overarching objective is to support an enabling environment where authorities can assume the responsibility of implementing policies and programmes related to the protection and reintegration of migrants and ultimately improve the governance of migration in the country.

This Action is based on the Action Document "Managing mixed migration flows: protection, health, assistance, resilience and community engagement" (Reference T05-EUTF-NOA-LY-11), with main delivery channels through UNHCR, IOM and WHO. The Action, in its objectives and activities, is a continuation of "Protecting vulnerable migrants and stabilizing communities" (Agreement T05-EUTF-NOA-LY-11/T05.141, duration: 1 May 2017 to 31 August 2021, total amount 70,800,000.00 EUR), which is henceforth in this document referred to as Phase I, while the proposed Action is referred to as Phase II.

It is relevant to note that Phase I has been a sizable and significant intervention which has, over the course of more than four years, allowed IOM to provide protection services and assistance to populations in need across the country and to react quickly to relieve urgent needs when they have arisen. It has also been a ground-laying action allowing IOM the opportunity to start addressing issues of longer-term significance in the wider areas of migration management and community resilience.

The Action is rooted in IOM Libya's Strategic Framework for 2021-2024⁴, which stresses equally the importance of continuing the provision of assistance and protection to migrants in Libya who are in an extremely precarious and vulnerable position from a protection perspective, but also the expansion of programming related to medium and long-term objectives, such as community engagement, labour mobility and border management.

⁴ IOM Libya Strategic Framework 2021-2024, URL: <https://libya.iom.int/sites/libya/files/Publications/IOM%20LIBYA%20FRAMEWORK%202021%20-%202024.pdf>

The Action is also in line with IOM's MENA Regional strategy 2020-2025⁵, which reflects the essential role that IOM plays in the field of human mobility: protecting, assisting and supporting migrants, developing effective responses to the shifting dynamics of migration, and serving as a key source of advice on migration policy, research, data and practice. The regional strategy also highlights an aspect that is very significant with regard to Libya, namely the critical work that IOM undertakes in emergency situations, developing the resilience of communities and mobile populations and particularly those in vulnerable situations, while building capacity within governments to manage all forms and impacts of mobility.

With the wide range of areas of intervention this Action proposes, it contributes also towards the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) in a variety of ways. In addition to the often referred to SDG 10.7 which targets specifically the facilitation of orderly, safe, regular and responsible migration, including the implementation of well managed migration policies, the Action Document contributes to SGD 3: Ensure healthy lives and promote well-being for all people at all ages, SDG 10: Reduce inequality within and among communities and SDG 16: Promote just, peaceful and inclusive societies.⁶

The Action is in line with the principles and spirit of the Global Compact for Safe, Orderly and Regular Migration (GCM), which is not signed by Libya. The GCM recognizes that migration has been part of the human experience throughout history, that it is a source of prosperity, innovation and sustainable development and that these positive impacts can be optimized by improving migration governance. It sets forth a vision where migration benefits all. This Action tries to contribute to this vision with all its aspects and particularly with its planned activities related to labour mobility and creating a strong evidence base on migration processes.

The project is structured as follows:

Overall Objective – Reinforce protection and resilience of migrants and host communities in Libya while supporting an improved migration management along migration routes in the country.

B. Evaluation purpose

The evaluation is an IOM end-cycle (final) summative evaluation to be conducted through an external firm intended for programme management and donors.

The main objective of the evaluation is to assess and measure the extent to which the project implemented in Libya, has achieved its intended short-, medium- and long-term objectives as well as the extent to which the interventions and delivery strategies were adequate to address the problems at hand with the aim to determine what worked and what did not work under what circumstances. The evaluation is therefore also expected to document lessons and good practices. The findings, recommendations, lessons, and good practices emanating from the evaluation will be used to inform further programme development either through scaling up or through the development of a follow up phase to maximize the momentum created through this initiative. The users of this evaluation include IOM Libya particularly the project Management team and PDSU interested in integrating recommendations, lessons, good practices into on-going programmes and identified priorities into future resource mobilization initiatives as well as the project team. Furthermore, the evaluation is expected to inform the donors who is interested to know the effectiveness and efficiency of the projects.

C. Evaluation Scope

The evaluation will study the effects of the project interventions on the beneficiaries at the end of the implementation period. More specifically, the evaluation will analyse to what extent objectives and results were achieved and who benefited from them. The evaluation will cover the entire period of projects implementation duration (12 months, from 1 September 2021 to 31 August 2022).

D. Evaluation criteria

The evaluation will assess the performance of the project against the OECD-DAC criteria of relevance, effectiveness, coherence, efficiency, impact and sustainability. The evaluation is also expected to assess the extent to which the project integrated cross-cutting issues including gender and human rights. In order to assess what worked and what did not work the evaluation is also expected to assess the project overall logic and implementation processes to determine how the project was adequate to local needs.

Overall, the evaluation will assess of the project performance on the following:

1. The adequacy of the implementation Strategy and approaches.
2. Determination of the relevance of the intervention in terms of timing, targeting and design.
3. Determine whether resources (financial, human and materials/equipment) have been used wisely addressing the needs of the beneficiaries and to what proportion of the people in need.
4. Documentation of the efficiency and effectiveness of the intervention based on the results achieved with available resources.
5. Identification of indicators of success, including project beneficiaries' views on the benefits and impact of the interventions.

6. Assess the impact of activities, the level of engagement of local communities, and the readiness to expand this component in future actions related to mobile service delivery and continuity of care and protection in the country.

E. Evaluation questions

More specifically, the evaluation will seek to provide informed answers to the following questions:

Relevance, as the extent to which the project's objective and intended results remain valid and pertinent either as originally planned or as subsequently modified

- Do the intended results align with and support government officials building of capacities?
- Has the project responded to the needs of the target beneficiaries, especially of migrants?
- Has the project targeted beneficiaries – especially migrants - in the most effective way?
- Is the project aligned with and supportive of IOM national, regional and/or global strategies and the Migration Governance Framework?
- Are there any identifiable ways that the approach should be revised in future, or is it evident that additional or complementary activities or projects will need to be implemented?
- Is the project well designed according to IOM project development guidelines in a way that address local priority needs?

Effectiveness assesses the extent to which a project translated resources and activities into its intended short, medium- and long-term results.

- To what extent has the project successfully translated the resources (inputs) into tangible and quality outputs and outcomes in accordance with the stated plans?
 - To what extent has the project and its outputs enhanced the migrants access to basic services and the capacities of Government officials on protecting vulnerable migrants?
- Were the activities sufficiently well implemented to reach intended results? Would other activities have been more effective in reaching the results?
- To what extent has the project and its outputs met stakeholder expectations, both government and participants?
- To what extent has the project adapted to changing external conditions in order to ensure project outcomes are achieved?
- What were the major external factors influencing the achievement of the project's expected outputs and outcomes, including both contextual factors and other related interventions?

Efficiency is how well human, physical and financial resources are wisely used to undertake activities, and how well these resources are converted into outputs.

- To what extent were resources (time, funds, expertise) used wisely and adequately to address the most compelling priorities and achieve the outputs? Is the cost worth it?

- How does this project align with and complement other related initiatives, whether implemented by IOM, the government, or other national and international actors? What is the added value, if any, of this project compared to those other efforts?
- Were the project activities undertaken as scheduled and were outputs delivered on time and in expected quantity? If not, what was the reasons?

Impact is an evaluation criterion that assesses the positive and negative, primary and secondary long-term effects produced by a project, directly or indirectly, intentionally or unintentionally.*

- What long-term changes (whether intended or unintended, positive or negative) can be observed, if any? To what extent can they be attributed to the project interventions?

Sustainability refers to the durability of the project's results or the continuation of the project's benefits once external support ceases.*

- To what extent were the project and its results supported by local institutions and embedded in institutional structures that are surviving beyond the life of the project?

Cross-cutting issues: Gender and Human Rights⁷:*

- To what extent were gender mainstreaming issues considered in design and implementation?
- To what extent were differences, needs, roles and priorities of women, men and specific vulnerable groups considered during planning and implementation?
- Were any barriers to equal gender participation identified in design or implementation, and was anything done to address these barriers?
- To what extent did rights and dignity of beneficiaries uphold by project and its partners throughout the implementation?

F. Evaluation methodology

Given the current context in Libya, the evaluation will be conducted mainly remotely (home based) with one field visit – if the situation will allow. The evaluator should provide a detailed and appropriate methodology and data collection methods to get credible evidence to address the evaluation objectives and to respond to the above evaluation questions in addition to the following suggested methods: from

- (1) Desk reviews of available documents.
- (2) Direct observation at selected site (only if the situation will allow);

(3) Semi-structured interview with beneficiaries.

(4) Interview with project staff; and

(5) Interview with key informants.

(6) Review and Analyse project monitoring records.
